

"LITTLE JENNIE"

Sailing in the Grand Old Way

DAY SAILING or
EXTENDED CRUISING on a
BIT OF AMERICAN HISTORY

36-1/2
28-5

"LITTLE JENNIE"
Oxford, Maryland 1884

From tip of bow sprit to end of main boom — 86'

Length on Deck — 61'

Beam — 16' 6"

Draft: Board Up — 4' 6"

Draft: Board Down — 9'

85 h.p. Gray Marine Diesel

Cruising Speed — 8 Knots

200 Gallons of Fuel

200 Gallons of Fresh Water

Depth Indicator

Sperry Radio Direction Finder

Pearce-Simpson 70 Watt Radio Telephone

The "Little Jennie" is a bugeye ketch, a romantic piece of American sailing history, dating back to 1884. She was built as an oyster dragger. Now converted to a pleasure yacht she provides simple amenities with the most pleasurable kind of sailing, "with character".

Now fitted out to sleep six with a simple galley and two heads, ideal for a party of four to six for extended cruising. It can be stated that the "Little Jennie" is one of the most comfortable day sailers on the east coast. It is unusual that a vessel of this size can accommodate thirty persons or more and with a most desirable plus, she sails nearly upright with a stiff breeze.

We are flexible in the operation of the "Little Jennie" you can participate — from steering, hoisting the sails to cook and bottle washer or just take it easy. Your choice.

On board you will find the basics for fishing, a sunfish for more sailing, a dinghy with outboard. The captain and crew are certified skin and scuba divers. Snorkeling gear aboard, and the sparkling gin clear waters of the Bahamas in our back yard.

If you would like to obtain information on chartering the "Little Jennie" you may contact:

"LITTLE JENNIE"
1113 Tennessee Avenue
Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312